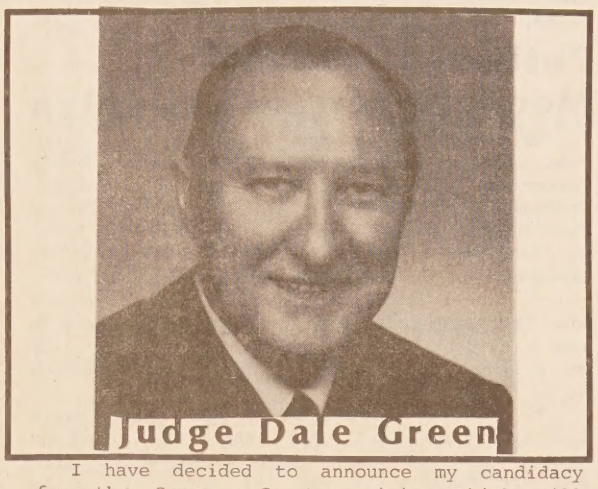
Judge Dale Announces Candidacy For Supreme Court



Judge Dale Green

I have decided to announce my candidacy for the Supreme Court position which will be vacated by the retirement of Chief Justice Williams of Spokane. Many people have urged me to do this and I believe my experience has trained me for this post.

In 1969, when I was a practicing lawyer in Walla Walla, Governor Evans appointed me as one of the 12 members of the newly created Court of Appeals. For 15 years I have been a Judge, and twice Chief Judge, of the Spokane division and have been engaged in the same decision-making process as a Supreme Court Justice. The only difference is the Supreme Court has the final word; however, the Court of Appeals has been the court of last resort for 95 percent of the appeals in this state. Because of this experience, there will be no on-the-job training needed for me.

Moreover, I bring an understanding of the problems of the practicing lawyer and his client. I was in private and public law practice for 19 years before I became a Judge on the Court of Appeals. As a former United States District Atorney for Eastern Washington,I understand the problems involved in both prosecuting and defending criminal cases. I was also a trial attorney for the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C. My private practice in the law firm of Sherwood, Tugman & Green in Walla Walla embraced virtually every facet of the law. I understand the practical impact of Supreme Court decisions on the legal profesions and the public.

I graduated from the University of Washington where I received my law degree and also a B.A. in Econmics and Business.

Because my background has prepared me to be a member of the Supreme Court, I intend to run for the position to be vacated by Chief Justice Williams.

Married to the former Peggy Spencer for 38 years, Judge Green has two married children: Fred, of Bellingham, Washington, and Judy, who is presently living in Japan.

Joe Stortini States Minority Hiring Increases In Government

Miniorities are steadily emerging in Pierce County government, according to employment statistics.

Of the county's 1,131 emloyees in 1983, 131 or 11.58 percent were minorities.

"We've come a long way," from the 6.2 percent of minorities in county government seven years ago, said Pierce County Executive candidate, Joe Stortini. "Today, we're on the road to recovery."

Stortini, who founded the county's personnel system in 1977 is pleased with the county's progression in minority hiring. He said the centralized personnel system "opened the doors for better hiring practices" and "broke the bond of patronage."

He acknowledged the county has done a "complete turnaround" from 1978 when the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights exposed the inequities of minorities i county government.

Stortini said the county was eager to reverse its discriminatory image; now it operates under afirmative action guidelines.

Vietnam Vets To Bring Memorial To Northwest

A group of Vietnam veterans will bring a half-sized replica of the vietnam Memorial to the Northwest, according to Lee Raaen, Chairman of the Vietnam Veterans' Leadership Project in Seattle. The photomural, 250 feet long and 8 feet high and an exact replica of the one dedicated in Washington, D.C. 1982, will be on display in the Seattle Center Flag Pavilion September 19-22.

The event's organizers plan to have a reading of the names of the dead and missing in action from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Alaska and Hawaii. Raaen said they also plan to include recognition of those from British Columbia who were killed while serving with U.S. forces in Vietnam. The reading will tae place Tuesday, September 18, at the sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, 205 Second Avenue North, Seattle, near the Seattle Center beginning at 6:30 p.m.

"We selected the theme 'Coming Together Again' because we feel all those in our community who have lived through that era are back together," Raaen stated. He pointed out that there are more than 350,000 Vietnam era vetrans living in the Northwest, plus thousands of families who were directly affected by the war through military service of a relative or friend.

"We invite all those interested, including those who served in the Vietnam War and those that remained in the community, to join us in this project." stated Raaen, a Seattle attorney.

Admission to this event will be free. Those needing more information concerning the event or exhibits can contact Joel Estey, Director of the VVLP, (206)343-5590.

Stortini

Stortini said the county aims to continue the trend of increased minority hiring. He said the county has set a goal of hiring an average of 18 percent more minorities in areas where they are underutilized such as officals/administrators, technicians, and office/clerical occupations.

In District Court, for example, of the 44 employees, he said 99 percent are women and 30 percent are minorities.

The Personnel Department, however still needs a bit of "refining", he maintained. Because "for one thing people with complaints about the Personnel Department have to go to Personnel with their grievances."

But "we've come a long way," he repeated. Now, he said, the "county has the ability to go even further."

Joe Stortini

Mondale

Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale was promised unqualified support by a group of Black leaders that included Mayor Washington, who has been critical of Mondale in the past, Mayor Andrew Young and Coretta Scott King.

Mondale and Rev. Jackson met for more than two hours, aimed at resolving lingering differences over the number and pace of minorities added to the democratic campaign staff. Jackson said, "my support will be broad based, my involvement deep and intense."

HAVE YOU BELIEVE OUR REPORT?
SERIES #45
ISAIAH 53: 1&2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him as a root out of dry ground.

He hath no form nor comiliness: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

WORDS OF WISDOM
ISAIAH CHAPTER 24

Behold, the Lord maketh the earth empty, and maketh it waste, and turneth it upside down, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his master; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with the taker of usury, so with the giver of usury to him.

The land shall be utterly emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the Lord hath spoken his word.

The earth mourneth and fadeth away, the world languisheth and fadeth away, the haughty people of the earth do languish.

The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants thereof; because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, broken the everlasting covenant.

Therefore hath the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate: therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

The new wine mourneth, the vine languisheth, all the merryhearted do sigh.

The mirth of tabrets ceaseth, the noise of them that rejoice endeth, the joy of the harpceaseth.

They shall not drink wine with a song; strong dring shall be bitter to them that drink it.

The city of confusion is broken down: every house shut up, that no man may come in.

There is a crying for wine in the streets; all joy is darkened, the mirth of the land is gone.

In the city is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction.

When thus it shall be in the midst of the land among the people, there shall be as the shaking of an olive tree, and as the gleaning grapes when the vintage is done.

They shall lift up their voice, they shall sing for the majesty of the LORD, they shall cry aloud from the sea.

Boy Accused Of Killing Friend Had Recently Seen Horror Movie

A 12-year old boy, from Sparkman, Arkansas, who admitted stabbing a play-mate to death was described as an "All-American Kid" who had played on the same baseball team as his victim.

The youth, who was not identified because of his age, is accused of killing Eric Daniels, 12, as they played in the football bleachers at Sparkman Junior High School.

Eric's father, Edward Johnson, said in a telephone interview that he had no clues about a motive for the slaying - the boys were close friends.

The accused boy had recently seen "Friday The 13th", a horror movie containing graphic scenes of murders, police said...

State police Sgt. Jerry Bradshaw said the boy was arrested after police failed to find evidence to carroborate his story that a man wearing a mask had come from under the bleachers and atacked Eric.

Bradshaw said officers questioned the youth for two hours, "and he finally confessed to it."

I do not know that the boy killed his friend as a result of seeing the horror movie, "Friday The 13th"; but what we see and hear does affect us. A dietitian once said, "you are what you eat." That principle also applies to the spiritual realm. It is impossible to feed young people a diet of violence, crime, immortality, and sex without it affecting their lives. The Bible admonishes, "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things" (Philippians 4:8).

Entertainment , Beauty & Fashion Tips

Fashion Victims

Have you ever walked into a room and had your eyes assaulted by a woman wearing the latest trendy look from head to toe? What I mean is the latest length in dress, and shoes, neon earrings, and designer suitcase disguised as a purse all at the same time? We call these poor souls victims because they need saving from the sometimes unkind god called fashion.

Everyone wants to be told she looks good every now and then, but when the almighty voice of fashion booms metallics, that doesn't mean you have to dress like the tin man. Fashion is supposed to be fun. New looks keep us from being bored - they add interest to our wardrobes - but there's a significant difference between doing it to death and beating it to death.

As a matter of fact it's the difference between being stylishly dressed and dressed badly. Looking ridiculous in the name of fashion is something we should want to avoid.

Now that summer is almost over let's get in shape for fall. Remember the clothing that had been hanging in your closet, now's the time to take the plunge, but remember the fashion business is crazy. They insist you buy swimsuits when it's 20 degrees below and woolens when it's 90 degrees in the shade. If you don't snatch them up, all the good stuff is gone by the time the season arrives.

We must learn that clothing cannot be a crutch. We must impress and gain respect for our intelligence and depth of character. It's important to make the right visual presentation, but make sure you've got more going for yourself than the right look. Being a slave to fashion goes counter to our indivisuality.

"You are what you wear" is a bit of inspiration the executive of the fast track must take to heart. What you wear sends messages to the world, and because you select your wardrobe, it's up to you to choose the signals you want to convey.

One of the latest revelations from the school of Dressing for Success in the fact that, not only is the outfit you wear important, but the colors can play significant role in communicating strengths and weakness. Of course, when you're going to a job interview or an important meeting you want all the advantages on your side!

Philippians chapter 2

If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies,

Fulfil ye my joy, that ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.

Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others.

Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus:

Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God:

But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men:

And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name:

That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Tony Brown's Comments

A Florida Memorial Boost

During the last two decades problems indigenous to many Black collegs have become apparent. Too many of the Black colleges are not growing, lack the creative ability to develop a new thrust that will make them competitive and in some rare cases, such as Fisk, have suffered at the hands of its own leadership.

By the mid-1970's, Florida Memorial College in Miami had all of those problems. In 1977, when Dr. Willie C. Robinson arrived as its new president, this former Baptist Church school could not attract students and expected its doors to be padlocked any day. President Robinson, however, brought not only skills, but commitment--and a rare brand of grit.

He rebuilt with a new management system and staff that was contaminated by his vision. Faith in young people who were ill-prepared for college and looked upon as failures by society, a liberal admissions policy that is delicately balanced with remedial excellence and an ability to raise money became Dr. Robinson's answer to a floundering college's problems.

This year's enrollment has soared, up 100 percent from last year to 1,750. An astonishing $4.1 million fund raising effort, $800,000 over its goal, was achieved six months ahead of schedule. Miami's Cuban and Haitian communities, both educationally deprived, have satellite branches of Florida Memorial and the curriculum has been broadened from its liberal arts base to include aviation and a trip to Poland to study economics and managemnt.

It is one of only four colleges in the country authorized by the Federal Aviation Administration to offer all five options in the FAA's airway science curriculum and the only Black college in this elite of four. That's not all. There are new programs in urban transportation, computer science, engineering and criminal justice.

Demand at Florida Memorial has demonstrated that Black colleges fill a void. Dr. Robinson adds, "As long as there are imperfections in society, Black colleges are needed." Dean Barbara Hicks, head of academic affairs, explains that their faith that the student can succeed is self-fulfilling. "Individual assistance is the key. We test them. Then we go from there to improve their weaknesses," explains Ms. Dora Wright, director of developmental studies.

In my visits to this beautiful campus (now somewhat overcrowded by success) I was most impressed by its God-passion. No one apologizes for good manners and the traditional Christian values. Ms. Rosemary Lewis, the registrar credited with the enrollment bonanza, explains, "We try to sell parents on the principles like those their parents had. This is a place where we expect students to be willing to accept advice."

Literally, Florida Memorial is an answer to many prayers. Women share the leadership with men. It provides for students such as Christopher Clark, who squandered his high school years, a chance to turn his poor grade average in for a first-rate education and the leadership of his student government.

He warns others, however, that only well-disciplined students will succeed at Florida Memorial; incompetence, Clark warns, "is not going to be tolerated." Job recruiters also got the word, that's why 77 percent of the seniors last year were employed by 150 recruiters (up from 30) or went to graduate school.

Growth, however, is still the keynote. Mr. Samuel McClendon, the well-respected director of development, adds that a new dormitory is planned along with more social life for the students--to reduce some of the growing pains.

Florida Memorial energizes the movement to preserve Black colleges this year with hope. The will of black people to seek educational and spiritual excellence has been demonstrated on the last Monday of September every year since 1980 when Black College Day was organized to top the Carter Administration and some White and Black zealots from eliminating the 114 Black schools in the name of a desegregation plan that actually reduced the number of Blacks finishing colege.

Dr. Robinson has answered the insults with performance. In spite of having moved his college from famine to feast, he still pushes himself and the idea of excellence. "Things are still not the way we want them." He wants to raise academic standards further while still keeping the door open for those who would never get in otherwise.

Ms. Ricks adds, "If a Black college is not accessible, then why does it exist? We provide admission and strive for excellence. It is a delicate balance." Indeed. But a balance that can only be pulled off by Blacks who care.

On Dr. Willie C. Robinson, not enough can be said, not enough plaudits and awards can be heaped, not enough money donated to thank him for demonstrating that the freedom of Black people is the responsibility of Black people--to all people.

Power Of Life Force Within

Chiropractic is a science built on the premise that within man there is an intelligent, constructive force operating through clearly defined channels.

It is this life force which generates, develops and maintain our bodies in a state of normal health.

The analysis of how and where this life force could interrupt internally, and a method to overcome and correct such interruption, is the sum and substance of chiropractic practice and procedure.

Chiropractors have received comprehensive training to detect abnormal positions of vertebrae and to restore them to their normal position.

Normal transmission of nerve energy is restored, and renewed health is the natural result.

Health is a gift that thrives under chiropractic care, for when the body functions normally, with proper nerve supply, the natural state of health exists.

Millions of people have lived full and rich lives without modern convenience - but without health, convenience means nothing.

You owe it to yourself to investigate the merits of chiropractic.

Yours for better health,
Dr. Rody

INSTANT GAMES

Back To School Edition By Win Ellison

The day has finally arrived - your firstborn is being launched into the heretofore unknown outside world - KINDERGARTEN. For five years, he has known only the motherly rearing and concern of "Mom" who has become the final word in all his bodily needs and guidance.

Suddenly "the other woman" becomes all important. From day one, you hear "Miss Jones never yells," "Miss Jones always wears perfume," "Miss Jones knows all about everything." you suddenly find yourself dreading to hear the words "Miss Jones." How can it be possible that you have suddenly been removed from your pedestal and put in second place by a faceless person who has become a household word?

Remember how he complained about having to sleep on the floor in his sleeping bag when Aunt Sarah came to visit? At that time, he was sure he would suffer permanent spinal damage, not to mention that the dog kept kissing him.

Then the day comes when he tells you that Miss Jones has the neatest way of raising her right eyebrow when she is explaining something. "Gee, Mom, she looks just like Mister Spock." Another challenge -- you start practicing in front of a mirror, the fine art of raising your eyebrow while speaking. Of course on you, unlike Miss Jones, it looks more like an advanced case of eyestrain complicated by muscle spasms caused by a calsium defect.

The years fly by and, with each one, the heroine changes only her name as he advances through the grades. Of course, after the initial exposure to "the other woman," you learn that this too shall pass. You know that growing up means turning him loose to experience difference influences, and appreciating his expanding horizons.
